

A faint, light-colored pencil sketch of a man's face is visible in the background. The man has short, wavy hair and is looking slightly to the left. The sketch is rendered with fine lines and light shading, giving it a soft, artistic appearance. It serves as a backdrop for the text.

ARE YOU
THE CENTENARY TYPE?

Are you the Centenary type?

Ante-bellum buildings of Centenary College when it was located in Jackson, Louisiana.

Do you prefer a college which takes a personal interest in you as an individual—which combines high scholastic standards with a wide curriculum and a full program of activities?

Look through these pages—consider whether you are the type which will respond to the unique advantages of this privately supported, church affiliated college. Then decide for yourself whether you are the Centenary type.

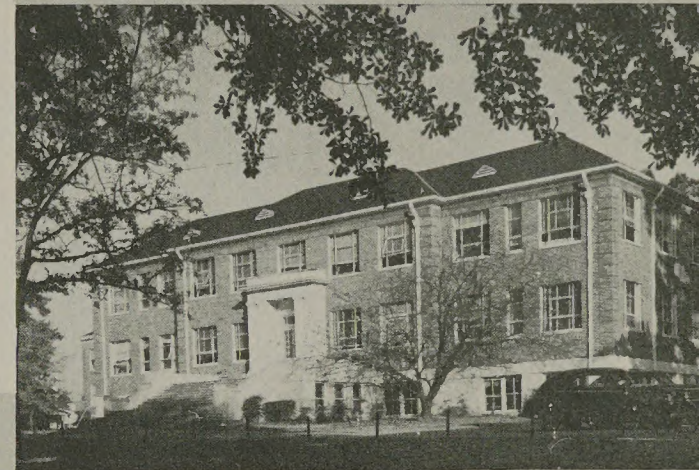

Like to think for yourself?

You'll find that Centenary students learn to look at both sides of a question before forming their opinions.

In small informal classes they explore the lessons of the past and acquire a broad knowledge of the present. With this background they are well prepared to take their places in society as loyal men and women who can think freely and independently.

Curious about the world around you?

Curiosity is encouraged at Centenary—the wholesome sort of curiosity which makes students want to find out all they can about the world they face. Centenary doesn't pretend to give all the answers—but its faculty takes a personal interest in helping each student learn how and where to find the answers for himself.

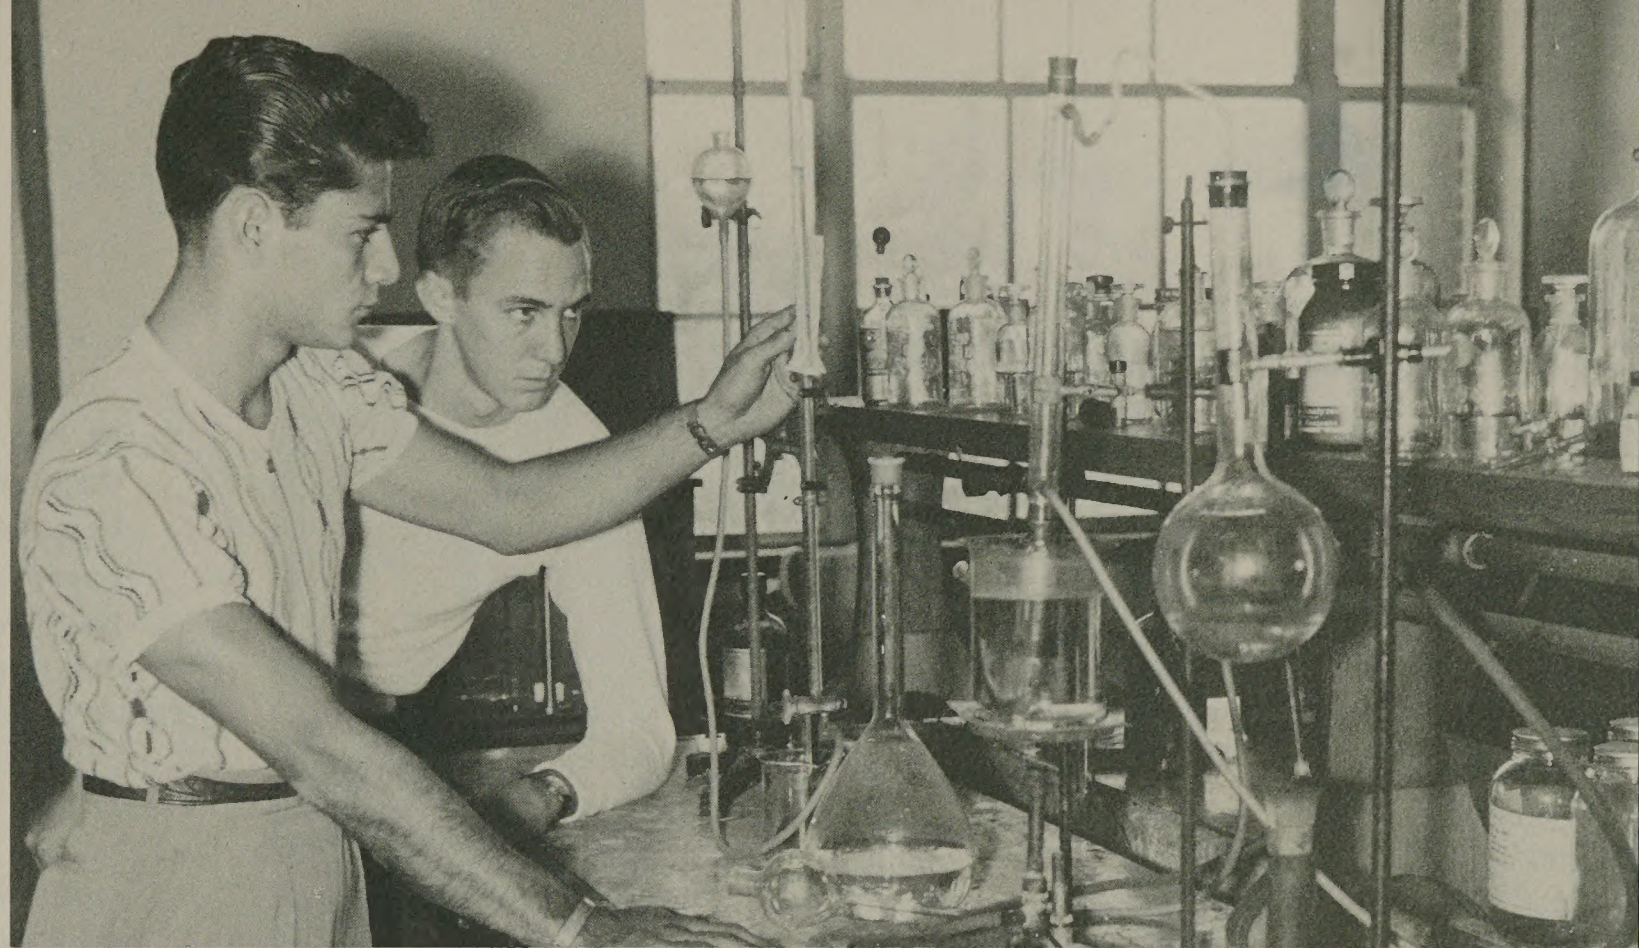

In Jackson Hall are the library, classrooms, foreign languages laboratory, art department and home economics department.

Want a degree of which you can be proud?

Centenary is a fully accredited four year college offering the B.A., B.S. and B.M. degrees. It is a member of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, and its School of Music is a member of the National Association of Music Schools. Centenary alumni include men and women who have made distinguished records in the professions, in religious and business life and in civic affairs.

Wish to prepare yourself for a Career?

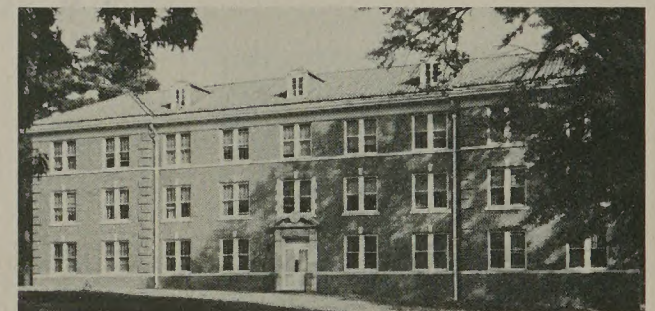

The curriculum at Centenary includes preparatory courses for a wide variety of professional and technical training. Outstanding business and professional men are frequently guests of the classes, giving students the benefit of their practical knowledge and experience. The college helps students secure part-time and full-time employment through its Placement Office.

Recently completed million dollar Science Hall has modern facilities for study of sciences.

Prefer a religious atmosphere?

Every aspect of college life is permeated with a deep religious faith, whether it be science classes, sports or the regular chapel services. Five denominational groups have their own organizations with meeting rooms in the Religious Center Building. Daily devotionals are conducted by student groups in the Meditation Chapel.

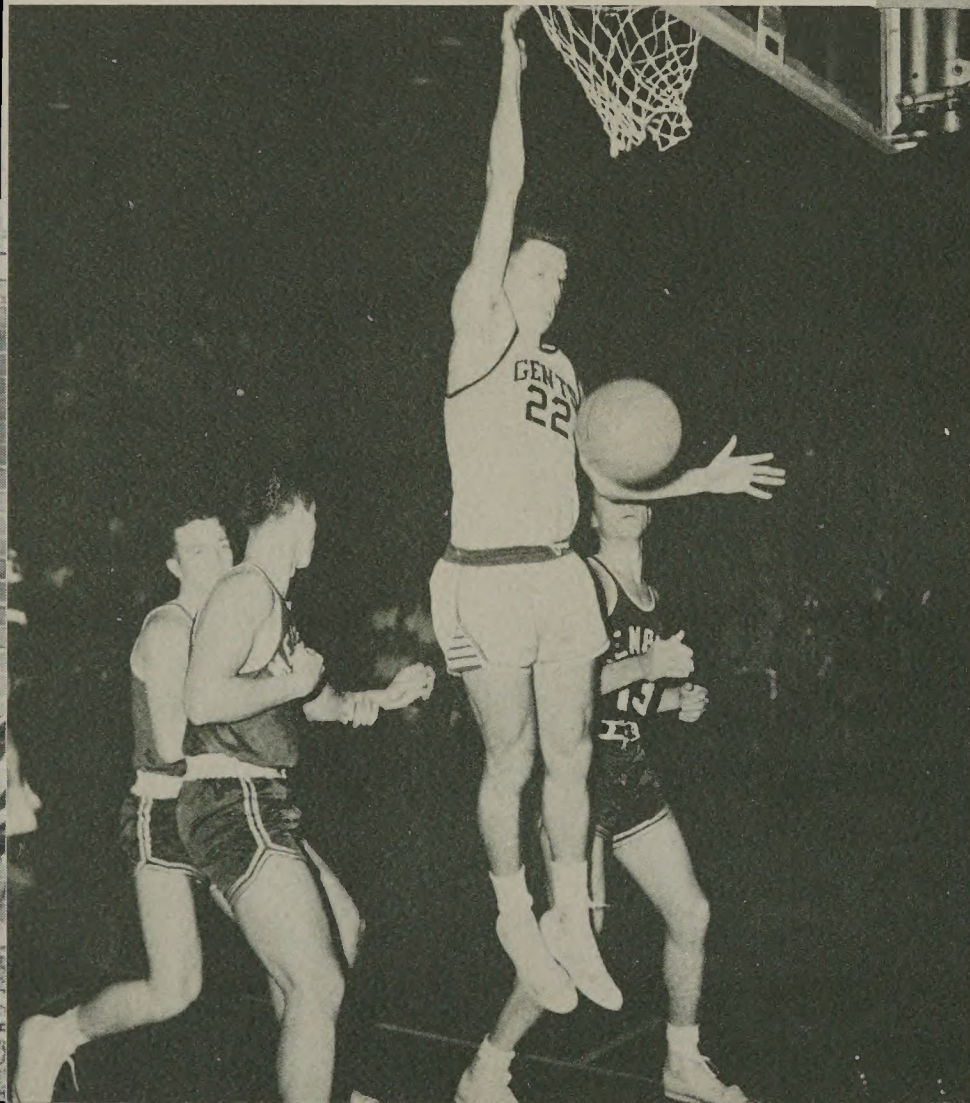

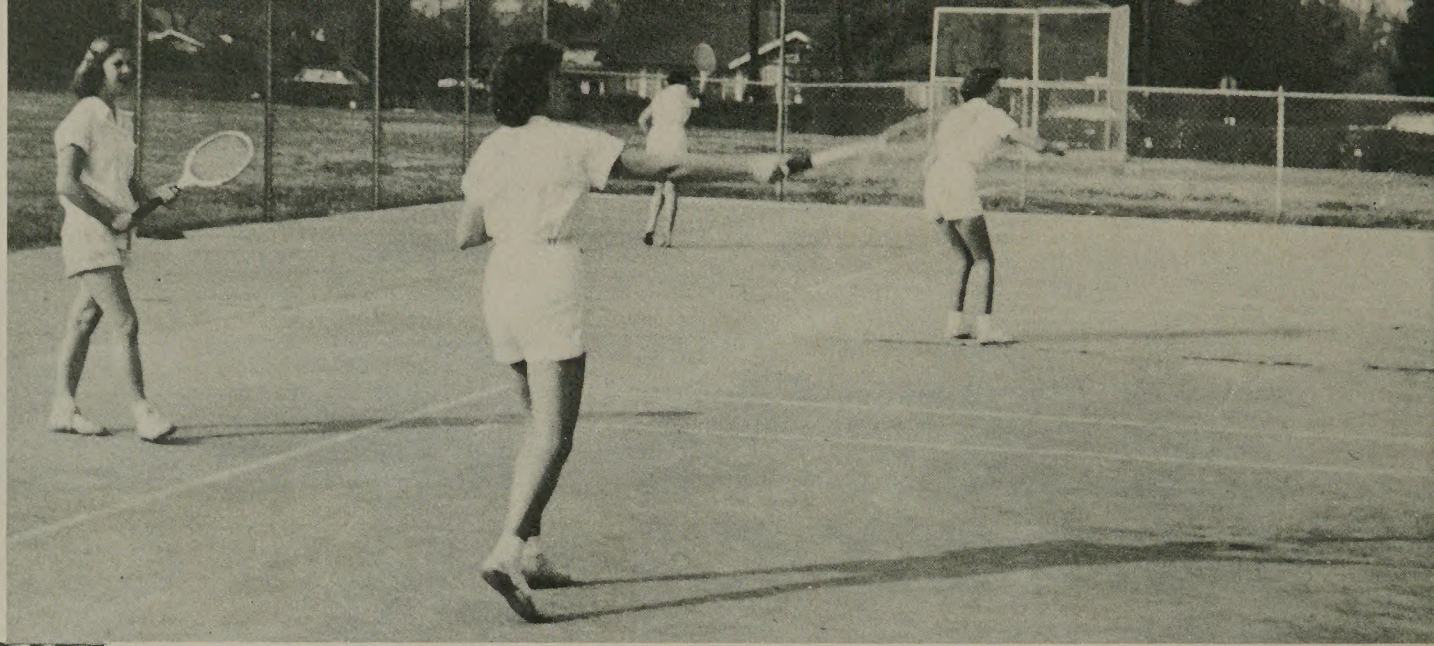

Rotary Hall, one of the homelike dormitories, has comfortable reception rooms and a hostess who takes a personal interest in each student.

Like to have fun?

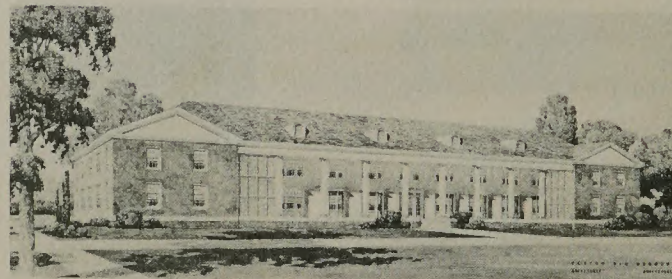

If you enjoy people—at club meetings, on dates, in outside activities—you'll find attractive young men and women at Centenary. They come from homes throughout the Ark-La-Tex area, as well as from many other states and several foreign countries. These young people bring to the campus a wide range of interests. Under the sponsorship of understanding faculty members, they organize into groups to share their hobbies, develop their common interests—or just to have fun.

Enjoy sports?

Everyone is on the team at Centenary. A broad program of intra-mural sports is planned so that every student may develop the physical skills and mental discipline which organized sports afford. Centenary competes with a number of southern colleges in basketball, baseball, golf and track. During the Christmas holidays the basketball team plays a schedule with leading colleges in the West and Midwest.

T. L. James memorial dormitory for women, scheduled for completion in 1953.

Got rhythm in your bones?

Whether, Bach or be-bop is your musical dish, you'll find many other students on the campus who share your taste. Several musical organizations—the famous Centenary Choir, the band, ensembles sponsored by the music school, and informal student musical groups—offer you an outlet for the rhythm in your bones.

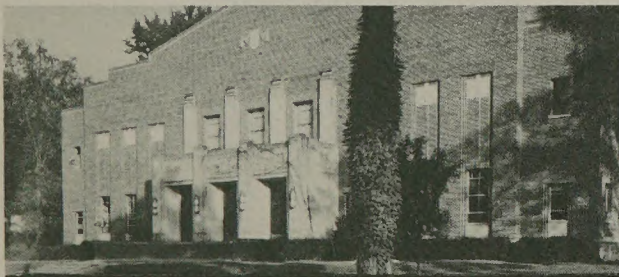

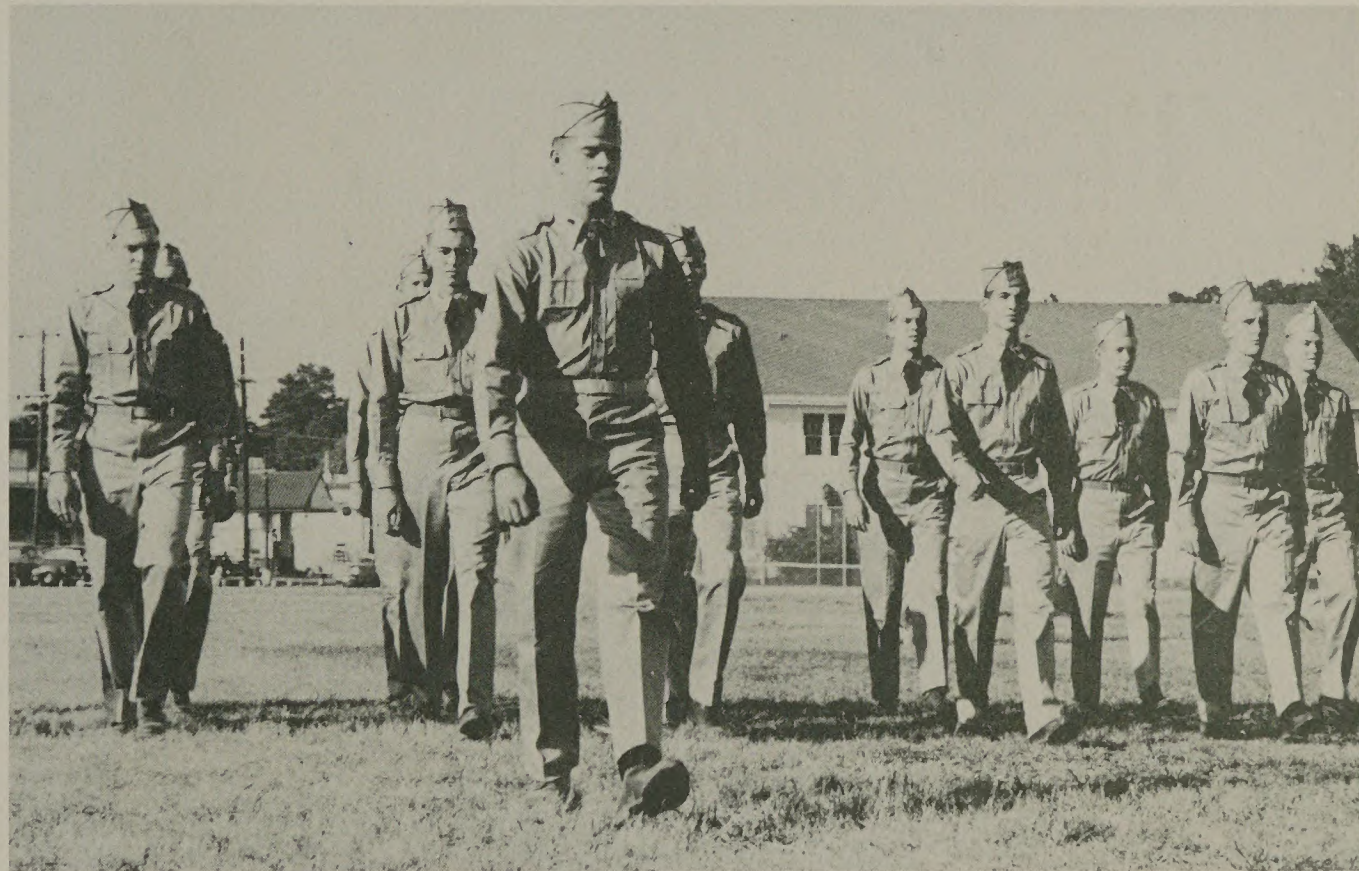

Does the smell of grease paint get you?

If you want to act on the stage—or paint scenery—or make costumes, the regular productions at the Playhouse offer you many opportunities. Students gain valuable experience by acting opposite professional guest actors who often appear on the Centenary boards. Centenary students also take part in local opera performances and in a number of all-student productions.

Interested in getting a commission?

Through Centenary's R.O.T.C. program you can earn a commission as second lieutenant in the army. You'll be a better American citizen, too, as a result of training in leadership and responsibility to your country. Centenary is one of the few colleges in the country offering a general R.O.T.C. course, leading to commissions in all branches of the army.

Haynes Memorial Gymnasium is the center of intra-mural sports and inter-collegiate athletics.

Then you'll like Centenary

You'll find it easy to adapt yourself to this friendly community of students and professors. In this atmosphere you will develop a more mature mind and a keener appreciation of the world about you. You will acquire a deeper sense of responsibility to your family, your friends, your religion, your country—and, you'll find that you're proud to be the Centenary Type.

For further information on Centenary College, telephone or write to:

DIRECTOR OF ADMISSIONS

CENTENARY COLLEGE OF LOUISIANA

POST OFFICE BOX 4188

SHREVEPORT, LOUISIANA

TELEPHONE: 8-2431

E. A. Frost memorial fountain and garden

SHREVEPORT, LOUISIANA